General Information

The City of Eugene maintains good stewardship of public funds by abiding by public contracting rules while seeking best values in procurement. Vendors play a crucial role in supplying the City with quality goods and services. Purchasing staff promote fair competition and transparency to support a level playing field for businesses wishing to work with the City. The City is comprised of six departments that make purchases small and large. The Purchasing Office assists in most procurements that exceed $10,000 for goods and trade services or $25,000 for personal services. Purchases under these thresholds are typically made directly by the departments. Facility Management and Engineering divisions also issue their own solicitations for construction projects.

Competitive Process

The City often issues solicitations when a purchase is expected to exceed $10,000. We issue Requests for Quotes, Invitations to Bid, Requests for Proposals, Requests for Qualifications, and Requests for Information. Each of these processes has its own legal and submittal requirements. Solicitations communicate the specifications of the product or service we seek, outline the submittal processes and relay minimum requirements.

Commitment to Sustainability

The City seeks products and services that have a reduced impact on human health and the environment and that more fully support communities and economies compared to their competitors. Sustainable purchasing efforts are guided by City-wide initiatives and policies that, among other goals, are aimed at reducing waste and greenhouse gas emissions, preserving resources, and maintaining the health of the community. We are interested in doing business with vendors who consider the long-term impacts within their industry and are proactive in maximizing sustainable practices. Bids & Notifications

Bidding opportunities issued through the Purchasing Office are posted on our electronic bidding system, eBid. Vendors can register and login to this system from our purchasing site:

www.eugene-or.gov/purchasing.

After registering with eBid, you will receive email notifications of opportunities that match the commodities you select.

Bid advertisements, abstracts, and notices of award are posted on the central solicitation website www.eugene-or.gov/bids. Here you will also find opportunities issued by Facility Management and the Engineering division.

Contacting City Staff

Vendors may contact the Purchasing Office or a specific department that may be interested in their product. Please be aware, City employees may only accept marketing materials if there is no intrinsic value to the offer.

Surplus

The City sells surplus items at Brasher's Auto Auctions, PublicSurplus.com, GovDeals.com, and by posting opportunities on Purchasing's website.

Minority, Women Owned, Disadvantaged Business Enterprise & Emerging Small Businesses

The City's Purchasing Office makes every effort within the parameters of the public contracting code to diversify the businesses with whom the City contracts. It is the policy of the City that MWDBE/ESB be afforded equal opportunity to participate in solicitation processes when competing for City business. The City strives to reach a diverse vendor base in order to obtain best value for the City in alignment with other policies and Council goals. State and Federally funded Public Improvement bids are subject to MWDBE/ESB requirements. Each solicitation document includes a social equity requirement.
